Objective:

Over the past six years I have had a lot of teaching experience in and out of traditional classrooms. My love for teaching, tutoring, and learning has inspired me to become a high school math teacher. I had the opportunity to volunteer through Andrews University and the Seventh Day Adventist church as a teacher on Ebeye in the Marshall Islands. This amazing experience solidified my commitment to teaching and has really inspired me to continue volunteering my time and talents to help those who need it most.

Work Experience:

Technician – Physics Enterprises

- I produced, tested, and shipped adiabatic gas law apparatus to use for laboratory demonstrations.
- Dec. 2009 – Aug. 2010

High School Math and Science Teacher – Ebeye Seventh Day Adventist School

- I taught: Algebra 1, Algebra 2, Physics, Economics, and Writing. I was the middle school basketball team coach. My proudest achievement was motivating my seniors to apply for college. Seventeen of my nineteen students were accepted and went on to college!
- Aug. 2010 – May 2011.

Teacher's Assistant, Tutor, Web Support, and Grader – Andrews University, Physics Department

- My work in the physics department was both varied and challenging. I co-authored the physics website: andrews.edu/phys. Converted the lab handbook to an online wiki, and helped shoot and host the instructional videos. I have worked as a Teacher's assistant and grader for general physics, astronomy, and concepts of physics. I also ran a group tutoring session for the advanced placement physics high school students. I also help the department with food prep, during the summers providing breakfast everyday to over 115 students.
- May 2008 – Current.

Math and Physics Tutor – Self Employed

- I have worked with students from 7th grade to college. I provide test prep, homework help, and general math and physics tutoring.
- May 2008 – Current.

Crew Member – Moe's Southwest Grill

- To accommodate my busy schedule, I work in the evenings at Moe's cleaning dishes, running the register, and preparing food for our patrons.
- Dec. 2013 – Current
