PROGRAM & COURSE LEARNING OUTCOMES

Your degree program seeks to help you achieve the Program Learning Outcomes basic to your chosen profession.

- MAPMin: Understand the historical-theological development of the Adventist Church

The following Course Learning Outcomes contribute to the overall Program Learning Outcomes by identifying the key learnings to be achieved by diligent work in this course:

Student Learning Outcomes (SLO) The student should be able to:

1. Ability to formulate, using critical thinking, a personal position regarding the major SDA doctrines.
2. Ability to critically evaluate and intellectually discuss different aspects of the SDA doctrines and theology.
3. Ability to explore and interpret historical written documents.
4. Ability to understand the principal theological trends within SDA Christian tradition.
5. Ability to communicate effectively oral and written.
6. Independency of criterion and initiative.

COURSE OVERVIEW

Course topics and assignments have been selected to contribute to learning and evaluating these Course Learning Outcomes (CLOs) as follows:

April 28	Post-Intensive Reading Assignment due

June 30	Final Project, Article due		Final project is due today. By midnight, this day, students should post in the LearningHub the final project. Project will be graded according to the rubric included in this syllabus.
July 28			Late final-assignment submission receives no more than a B by midnight on this day.
Aug 25			Late final assignment submission receives no more than a C by midnight on this day.
Sep 18			172 days from the first day of the class. Students who have not completed all intensive requirements will receive an F. This grade will negatively affect the overall GPA of the student, will stain the student's academic record, and may impede the pursue of post-graduate education.

ATTENDANCE

Regular attendance is required at all classes and other academic appointments. When the total number of absences exceeds 10% of the total course appointments, the teacher may assign a failing grade. Merely being absent from campus does not exempt the student from this policy. Absences recorded because of late registration, suspension, and early/late vacation leaves are not excused. The class work missed may be made up only if the teacher allows. Three tardies are equal to one absence.

Class Absences

“Whenever the number of absences exceeds 20% (10% for graduate classes) of the total course appointments, the teacher may give a failing grade. Merely being absent from campus does not exempt the student from this policy. Absences recorded because of late registration, suspension, and early/late vacation leaves are not excused. The class work missed may be made up only if the teacher allows. Three tardies are equal to one absence.

Registered students are considered class members until they file a Change of Registration form in the Office of Academic records”. AU Bulletin

TIME EXPECTATIONS FOR THE COURSE

US Credit-Hour Regulations

For every semester credit, the Andrews University credit hour definition requires that:

- Courses for professional masters' degrees (e.g., MDiv) include 15 instructor contact hours and 30 hours of independent learning activities.
- Courses for academic masters' (e.g., MA [Religion]) and all doctoral degrees include 15 instructor contact hours, and 45 hours of independent learning activities.

The calculation of hours is based on the study skills of the average well-prepared graduate student. Students weak in these skills: 1) may require more time and should consider taking fewer classes each semester; and 2) can find skill development assistance through the Seminary Study and Research Skills Colloquia, the AU Writing Center, and AU Student Success office.

In order to achieve the outcomes of this course, learning time will be distributed as follows:

		Professional Masters' Programs
		3 Credits
Instructor Contact Hours	Face to Face Instructional Time	39 hrs
Independent Learning Activities	Reading required course material	40 hrs
	Research project: Article	50 hrs
	Daily Quizzes	6 hrs
Total Hours		135 hrs

SDATS GUIDELINES FOR CALCULATING ASSIGNMENT LOADS

Average reading speed: 15-20 pages/hour for light reading not to be tested on

10-15 pages/hour for heavy reading for exams

Writing time: 2.5 – 3 hours/double spaced page, from start to be finished product

Reflective Writing Assignment: 0.5 hour per page

An Online Assignment Load Calculator is available at: www.cte.rice.edu/workload/

GUIDELINES FOR COURSE ASSIGNMENTS

Grades are based on the independent learning activities below which provide practice toward, and assessment of, the learning outcomes of this course. The grade weighting for each assignment is provided in the right-hand column. Specific due dates are given in the Course Overview above.

* For grading rubrics that specify grading criteria in more detail, see Appendices.

In order to make grading fair for everyone, grades will be assigned on the basis of the above requirements alone. No individual arrangements will be made for those requesting last minute grade adjustment or extra credit.

Submission of Assignments

Written work should be electronically submitted in Learning Hub, learninghub.andrews.edu/login/index.php

Late Submission

- 1- Assignments submitted late will automatically receive a five-point deduction.

Examinations

“Credit is not granted in courses unless the required examinations are completed by the student. Students are expected to follow the published examination schedule. In cases where the schedule requires a student to complete four exams in one day, arrangements may be made with the dean to complete one of the examinations at another time”. AU Bulletin

ABOUT YOUR INSTRUCTOR

Born in Puerto Padre, Cuba, Abner holds a Ph.D. in church history and systematic theology. He wrote his dissertation on “The Doctrine of Prevenient Grace in Jacobus Arminius Theology.” An ordained minister of the Seventh-Day Adventist Church, his main interests include Reformation and post-Reformation history and theology, the theological thinking of Jacobus Arminius, and the development of Adventist theology from the perspective of Seventh-day Adventist theologians.

Abner served as a local pastor and professor of theology in Cuban Union, and he is currently serving as a professor of historical and systematic theology at Montemorelos University, Mexico. He is happily married to Keila Diaz and they have two sons, Abner Jasiel and Andy Josías.

OTHER COURSE-RELATED POLICIES

Academic Integrity

The Seminary expects its students to exhibit rigorous moral integrity appropriate to ministry leaders representing Jesus Christ. Complete honesty in academic matters is a vital component of such integrity. Any breach of academic integrity in this class is subject to discipline. Consequences may include receipt of a reduced or failing grade, suspension or dismissal from the course, suspension or dismissal from the program, expulsion from the university, or degree cancellation. Disciplinary action may be retroactive if academic dishonesty becomes apparent after the student leaves the course, program or university. A record of academic integrity violations is maintained by the University Student Academic Integrity Council. Repeated and/or flagrant offenses will be referred to an Academic Integrity Panel for recommendations on further penalties.

Academic Dishonesty includes:

- Plagiarism in which one fails to give credit every time use is made of another person's ideas or exact words, whether in a formal paper or in submitted notes or assignments. Credit is to be given by use of:
 - Correctly designed and inserted footnotes each time one makes use of another individual's research and/or ideas; and
 - Quotation marks placed around any exact phrases or sentences (3 or more words) taken from the text or speech of another individual.
- Presenting another's work as one's own (e.g., placement exams, homework assignments).
- Using materials during a quiz or examination other than those explicitly allowed by the teacher or program.
- Stealing, accepting, or studying from stolen quizzes or examination materials.
- Copying from another student during a regular or take-home test or quiz.
- Assisting another in acts of academic dishonesty
- Submitting the same work or major portions thereof, without permission from the instructors, to satisfy the requirements of more than one course.

Academic Accommodations

If you qualify for accommodation under the American Disabilities Act, please see contact Student Success in Nethery Hall 100 (disabilities@andrews.edu or 269-471-6096) as soon as possible so that accommodations can be arranged.

Use of Electronics

No recording or streaming is permitted in seminary courses.

Courtesy, respect, and professionalism dictate that laptops and cell phones are to be used only for class-related activities during class time.

Communications and Updates

Email is the official form of communication at Andrews University. Students are responsible for checking their Andrews University e-mail, Moodle, and iVue alerts regularly.

LearningHub Access

Andrews University Learning Hub hosts this course online. Your Learning Hub username and password are the same as your Andrews username and password. Use the following contact information if you need technical assistance at any time during the course, or to report a problem with LearningHub.

Emergency Protocol

Andrews University takes the safety of its student seriously. Signs identifying emergency protocol are posted throughout buildings. Instructors will provide guidance and direction to students in the classroom in the event of an emergency affecting that specific location. It is important that you follow these instructions and stay with your instructor during any evacuation or sheltering emergency.

Please Note: The instructor reserves the right to revise the syllabus, with the consensus of the class, at any time during the semester for the benefit of the learning process. The up-to-date Course Description for this course may be found at www.learninghub.andrews.edu .

APPENDIX 1: INTERPRETING LETTER GRADES

Letter Grades and Percentages

95-100%	A	83-86%	B	73-76%	C
90-94%	A-	80-82%	B-	70-72%	C-
87-89%	B+	77-79%	C+	60-69%	D
				0-60%	F

THE B GRADE

The B grade is a sign that you have competently fulfilled all of the requirements stipulated for an assessment or competency evaluation. It is a very good grade and demonstrates a high level of the knowledge, insight, critical competence and professional presentation standards essential for an individual wishing to pursue a career as a professional leader in ministry.

THE A GRADE

An A grade is given only when a student not only fulfills the criteria for a B grade, but in doing so demonstrates an advanced academic aptitude for content knowledge, critique, synthesis and independent insight, while exhibiting highly developed communication skills and professional publication standards that would allow them to pursue a highly competitive academic career.

THE C GRADE

The C grade differs only from a B grade in that the traits outlined in the B grade above are not consistently applied. However, with diligence and by applying feedback from your lecturer, the academic process can provide opportunity for a student to improve their consistency, and hence, their grade.

THE F GRADE

A failing grade is given when very limited or no demonstrable competency has been observed.

Guidelines for research article

PRELIMINARY CONSIDERATIONS

Writing something just for a grade is a waste of time. Try to come up with questions that you have and that are not really reflected in the studies of other people. Research and write it with the goal in mind to use the material for a publication later on. You may not think that you have the talent of writing but constant practice sharpens a skill and eventually it will become easier for you to write something that is publishable. Put high standards for yourself and write your paper in a way that you can later use it in at least three different ways: first, an academic paper presentation; second, an academic article; and third, a popular article and a church presentation. Note: It is always easier to turn thorough, in-depth research into a popular presentation; the opposite is much more difficult and time-consuming.

BEFORE YOU WRITE

Acquaint yourself with the author guidelines of the periodical or journal where you want to submit your article. The first impression sets the tone for the relationship, even for future attempts to get something published. If the editors see that your article does not conform to their author guidelines, they will quickly know that you did not familiarize yourself with their guidelines (unprofessional). Remember: You want to publish something in their journal; they can lay down the rules. Further, before you submit something, give it to someone who can polish the language. Bad language is a reason for rejection. It gives the impression that the article does not have a good quality. Give it to honest and candid friends in order to receive constructive criticism.

ARTICLE STRUCTURE

The following structure applies to any article, book chapter, and presentation. In academic articles the structure is clearer whereas in popular articles it is more subtle although still existent. Knowing about these structures will not only help you in writing an article but also in reading more efficiently articles written by others.

1. TITLE OF THE ARTICLE

Your title should give an idea on what the article is about. Articles often carry merely a descriptive title. That may be quite boring. If you want to, you may place an illustrative statement or a catch phrase before your descriptive title.

2. INTRODUCTION

The funnel: Start broad and end narrow. With your first 1-2 sentences you want to lead into the general subject of the article, and you want to attract the reader's attention and hook him. Therefore, these sentences must be interesting and broad. Then you give, for example, an overview over the research that others have done on the subject and what has not been done yet. At the end of the funnel you state your thesis (what you will find), your purpose (what you will do), OR your "itinerary" (the individual "stations" of your study). This statement is important for the reader to know where you will be heading with him/her and what they have to expect. This should not be longer than 0.5-1.5 pages. It is here that your readers decide whether they continue to read or switch to something else.

3. ARTICLE BODY

Create different sections for the different arguments that support your thesis or for the different topics that you address. The beginning of a section should give an idea of what the reader has to expect from that section—for example, mentioning the subsections in the beginning, possibly preceded by a rationale why these are important or needed. Begin your standard paragraphs with a topic sentence so that the reader knows what the paragraph is about. Present your weakest argument first. Lead up to the strongest argument, which is the last in the body of your essay, whether your points are sentences or paragraphs. Illustrate your arguments with facts and examples, in vivid and lively language. Discuss the conclusions of other scholars and agree or disagree with them based on your findings. At the beginning of your topic sentence (in a paragraph or section) you should have a brief transitional touch to connect it with the previous paragraph or section. A few words on sources, something editors will look for: Sources in diverse languages (English, French, German, Spanish, Latin, etc.); different types of sources (books, academic articles, chapters in edited volumes, dissertations); and sources from different times (from old to recent publications). Why this might be helpful? It will give the editor the impression that you have explored your field and consulted all kinds of sources.

4. SUMMARY/CONCLUSION

The inverted funnel: Start narrow and end broad. In the beginning, reword/rephrase your thesis, purpose, or itinerary because, by that point, your reader may not remember any more what you were actually trying to show. You briefly summarize your findings, the high points, your insights and discoveries. Do not go into too much details and avoid introducing new data. Then, you become broader again. What does that mean for your field in general? What are the implications and ramifications? At the end, you may bring a clincher—the deciding argument. It will be your final sentence and last word. Here, you may bring the reader back to the beginning of the article and thus have an inclusio. That is often nice.

FINAL THOUGHTS

You do not have to follow these structural guidelines slavishly. With practice it will become more natural and flow more easily. Remember: The attention of the reader is usually decreasing after a few pages. Thus, your appeal should increase, especially towards the end. Scholars who are aware of this structure of writing do not just write like this, they also read articles with this structure in mind. You glance at the introduction, particularly its thesis or purpose sentence (What is the article about? Where will the author travel?). You fly over the section headings (How did the author travel?). You read the conclusion (What did the author find or conclude?). This may happen in less than 5 minutes. Then the readers know what the article is about, and they may decide to look closer at certain sections or not. Time is precious, there is an abundance of new information forcing itself on the reader, and a quick look decides whether he will actually read or not read your article.
